

Home Choice Program

Are you interested in a program that will partner you and your child with a Rim credentialed teacher, who will guide lesson plans and assessments? If so, Rim's "Home Choice" program may be what you are looking for! Please let us know if you are seriously interested so we can plan for staffing and reserve a spot for your student.

Professional Support

You will teach your child at home on your schedule, but you will be required to meet with a credentialed teacher on a regular basis at a school site. The teacher will schedule the meetings with you during a week day and time. It is mandatory keep these appointments. This is how attendance is monitored at the state level.

Flexibility

You will become the instructor for your child, following a Master Agreement that is signed by you and the district. Your student should be an independent learner to be successful in this program and should be close to grade level proficiency in all subjects. You will have to keep track of all assignments and grading through Google Classroom.

Ready for Home School?

- Have you realized that you would like to spend more time (bonding) with your child during the quarantine?
- Do you like personalizing the delivery of education for your child?
- Would you like to take your own field trips with your student to supplement their learning?
- Looking for flexibility of time to work and study vs. family/student needs?
- Social anxiety or other mental health issues that don't work with a large educational environment?
- Does your child have a medical issue that prevents them from attending school on a regular basis?
- Do you have philosophical or religious beliefs that are not promoted with public education that you would like to introduce?

Attendance

Parent and teacher will account for attendance when they meet with the teacher and in Google Classroom daily. The home school teacher will collect work samples for each student to be stored in a portfolio for review by the state. Missing a weekly meeting can have devastating consequences for your child's attendance so it will be a mutually agreed upon time based on teacher availability.

The calendar will follow the traditional school calendar for Rim with holidays, winter, spring, and summer breaks. You do have flexibility on when you want to teach your child, including the day, evenings, and weekends.

Your child must have access to a device and the internet at home to be considered for this program.

Not in Place of Home Hospital

Your student should be an independent learner who is at or above grade level. It may be challenging for special education or certain medical needs to be addressed in a home school program, although it could be good for some conditions so let's take a look.

Resources

Your assigned credentialed teacher and the administrator in charge of this program will be a great resource to you in getting curriculum, setting up schedules, designing lessons, collecting and grading work, and many other questions you may have about home school. Don't hesitate to contact them and make sure to make your weekly meetings and make the best use of that time for you and the teacher.

Designing Programs

Your child may have some special interests so you may be able to create an elective or project that will help them demonstrate learning in an area of your choosing. GATE students will have an ILP—Individual Learning Plan.

You can do it!

If you are interested, please fill out the interest form on our website and someone will be contacting you with more information. Consider yourself a pioneer as we begin this new program offering for Rim of the World Unified School District.

Please contact David Nygren, Coordinator of Alternative Programs with any questions.
